To the Chief of the Greece Police,

This morning I was awakened by a phone call at 4 A.M. from a person saying he was a policeman and that he and his partner were responding to a silent alarm from my security system. I went to my front door as requested so we talk together and found 2 young policemen waiting patiently. I knew I have a problem with the door from my house to the garage which the security company has been alerted to, Their technician will be here on Friday to address the problem. Your officers were very patient and courteous to me and had checked all exterior doors before waking me. I appreciated their concern and their handling of the situation and wanted you to know about these 2 fine officers. Regrettably, I didn't ask their names, but I'm sure you can figure out who they are. Thank you to all who serve in this vital department in the Town of Greece.

Sincerely,
Ruth Summers
